—Stone's majority over Turner, in the election of 1864, the independent of St. Louis, Globe-Democrat writing as to the extension of the Iron Mountain road from Columbus to Union City, says that by Union City, a saving of 16 miles would be saved in road building. The Kentucky route is only about 14 miles, and exactly how Willard George and his committee can make 26 to 28 miles to Union City, will save 16 miles, passes comprehension. From Union City to Bellfontaine via the main road, or via the Northwestern road, crossing the river at Hickman or up the Kentucky side, is the same distance, and therefore, are point on the Northwestern toward Hickman is that much nearer to Belmont than Union City.

—"Habit" is hard to overcome. If you take off the first letter, it does not change "a bit." If you take off the second, you have a "bad lot." If you take off the third, the whole of "it" remains. If you take another it is not "it," totally used up, but if you take one, it is a bad habit you must throw it off altogether.

—It is quite remarkable for merchants who never advertise to figure the local market, do this and the world helping to the improvement of the town. Don't such men realize that if the other merchants do not do this, and as they do not, no local paper could live to fight for any kind of an enterprise.

—In stating last week, that the time between Columbus and Belmont, on the Iron Mountain road, would take up the time of the completion of the Hickman branch, I did not say that road was "impassable" if not snowed up. It was, however, the result of a misunderstanding on our part, and not a desire to wound the town. The track was to be taken up, we were then at the account of the large grain elevator at Belmont.

—Mr. Van Camp, engineer of the Goulet system, in charge of the surveys of the Iron Mountain extension from Belmont to Marionville and from Columbus on the Kentucky to Hickman, was in Hickman with a party on Tuesday, and the survey, to be completed on Saturday, will be made to the river. Union City shipper less time than most ships than Hickman—Miss Ben Fulton County Votes-Daily.

A railroad official who ought to know, and does know, informs us that Hickman ships more local freight than the Nashville & Western, and that the road is dead, with the single exception of Nashville. The statement, formed as an inducement to the legislature, was that the Iron Mountain road to Union City, and for the sake of argument, let us say, it is admitted that Union City has to get its extension, but it is a fact that would go even so far as to prove that the road would go over it via Hickman if it is built; but this is not its intent, it is to Hickman without Union City, and as far as possible, as much as it will Hickman, giving its inferior interests, &c., another outlet. In this line, Mr. Bowring's plan lets the situation, on two roads extending each to the other that both have the same which it is evident, and extend to one another, whilst rival for trade and traffic will be as high as it was, with consistent with neighboring railroads.
